START THE WEEK IN HIGHCLASS MANNER

First- class Musical Entertainment Will Be Given Next Monday Night By the Charleroi Choral Society

AT THE H. S. AUDITORIUM

Directed By Chester C. Humphreys—Local Talent Will Comprise the Program, Assisted By George Kirk, Baritone, And Master Jack Hoyes, Soloist

Musical week promises great pleasure for Charleroi people and every day will be marked by a high-class musical entertainment.

The series will open at the H. S. auditorium by a concert given by the Charleroi Choral society, under the direction of Chester C. Humphreys, assisted by George Kirk, Pittsburgh baritone, Monday evening, February 18, at 8:15 o'clock.

Mr. Humphreys has the reputation of never having staged any entertainment but that has been very successful. His position as tenor soloist with the Pittsburgh Male Chorus, and the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce Chorus, gives him the best of experience in staging and directing choral concerts.

George Kirk is the outstanding baritone of the Pittsburgh district. In the State competition trials last year, Mr. Kirk tied for the honor of being the leading soloist, (under the age of twenty-five), in Pennsylvania. This entitled him to a place in the National competition held at Asheville, N. C, at which trial he won honorable mention. This is a mark of great distinction to be selected from all of the young artists of the United States for honorable mention. Mr. Kirk has never been heard in Charleroi and his appearance here is sure to be enjoyed.

The chorus is composed of singers selected from Charleroi, Monessen, Donora, Belle Vernon, Bentleyville, Allenport and Dunlevy. It has a membership of fifty people, and on account of the membership being only by invitation, and not by application, the various parts are kept in balance.

Master Jack Hoyes, boy soprano soloist of Calvary Church, will sing a group of songs. Master George Matthews, formerly of great popularity in Great Britain, will also sing a group of songs. There will be chorus numbers, quartet numbers, duets and solos. The program follows:

Viking Song, S. Coleridge Taylor, Chorus.

Birth of Morn, Leoni; I Know a Lovely Garden, D'Hardelot; Three Little Chestnuts, Page; George Matthews.

Watchman, What of the Night, Sargeant; Duet—Ornan Morgan and Herbert Dreyer.

Dio Possente, (Faust), Gounod; The Blind Ploughman, Clarke; Values. Vanderpool; George Kirk.

O Dry Those Tears, Del Riego; Chorus.

O, That We Two Were Maying, Nevin; Estelle Provins, Blanche Allison Toner.

Goin' Home. Dvorak: Chorus.

Incidental solos by Elva Majors, Vivian Beazell, Herbert Provins.

Intermission.

Rose of My Heart, Lohr; Chorus.

Jov. Harvev B Gaul· A Brown Bird Singing, Wood; Wake Up, Phillips; Jack Hoyes.

Sextet from Lucia, Domizetti; Quartet—Eleanor Harris, Vivian Beazell, Walter Stroud, Joseph Pearson.

Allah's Holiday, Friml; Dry Yo' Eyes, Lansberg; Chorus.

Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride, O'Hara; The Wreck of the Julie Plant, O'Hara; The Devil's Love Song, Gilberte; George Kirk.

Great Is Jehovah the Lord, Schubert; Chorus.

Miss Audrey Michener and Daniel Harris are accompanists.

Admits No Facts To Back Rumor

(United Press).—Frank A. Vanderlip, the financier, who dragged the late President Harding's name into the oil inquiry by saying the sale of the Marion Star, the President's newspaper, ought to be investigated, faced the Senate committee of the Teapot Dome today.

Examination of Vanderlip was begun by Senator Lenroot, who at once asked about the speech made on Lincoln's birthday.

"I admit I had no facts in which to substantiate the rumor."

"It was something like the whispering campaign that was heard in the movement before Mr. Harding's election. I believe out of respect for the memory of Mr. Harding that the scandalous rumors should be downed."

"What information did you have?" Lenroot asked.

"Only what I heard from responsible people."

"And you thought it your duty to give it publicity?"

"I thought it my particular duty."

Lewis R Brush and Roy D. Moore, who bought the Marion Star in June, 1923, from Mr. Harding, were in the committee room ready to testify.

Senator Walsh called attention of the hearing started for the newspaper story which stated the subpoena of Vanderlip was issued at a request of the Democrats.

"I desire to say that if any Democrat conferred about the matter I did not know of it, and I do not believe it" Walsh said.

Walsh then told how the subpoena was issued.

Vanderlip said: "As the rumor was known in every newspaper office, it seemed to me about time for it to be sen for larceny was apprehended in Wheeling, W. Va., yesterday.

WANTED FOR THEFT ARRESTED MAN IS SLIPPERY AS EEL

Constable Walter Wyatt of Monessen was sent to bring the prisoner back to Monessen and arrived there later in the day. Upon request of the prisoner to spend the night at his home instead of in the jail Wyatt took the man to his home. Upon arriving there Steinmetz asked to be allowed to accompany the officer to a local hotel, where he was to meet a man on business. He was taken to the hotel and in some manner eluded the officer.

Calling a taxicab, the man was taken to Donora where he secured some money from an acquaintance and continued on his way to Pittsburgh. Arriving there he asked the taxicab driver to take him to Wheeling, of-

GOVERNMENT HEADS LOSE IN MARKET

$1,000,000 "Slush Fund" Used to Cover Their Losses, According to Tip Given Committee Investigating The Oil Reserve Scandal

MILLION IS USED AS A LOAN

Has Been Repaid But $200,000, Believed In Dispute, And Through Which the Senate Committee Hopes to Ferret Out the Truth

Washington, Feb. 15. — (United Press).—Officials high in the government lost heavily in stock market plunges a year or more ago and a $1,000,000 "slush fund" was used to cover their losses, according to private information given today as a tip to the Senate committee investigating the oil reserves scandal.

When the plight of the officials became known to some of their friends in Wall street, $1,000,000 is said to have been raised and transferred from a New York to a Washington bank.

Relation of the $1,000,000 fund to the oil scandal is expected to be established by disclosures showing that big oil men subscribed the money.

This million was used purely as a loan, according to the story told the committee and all of it was repaid but $200,000.

A dispute over the $200,000 which still is believed unsettled caused hard feeling between the Wall street men who raised the money and at least one who was involved as a borrower from the fund. Through this hard feeling the Senate committee hopes to ferret out the truth about the transaction.

Edward B. McLean, millionaire Washington publisher, is reported hurrying north from Palm Beach to tell the committee whether he knows anything about the fund.

A subpoena was issued for McLean and he wired his newspaper in Washington he was leaving immediately.

Some prominent New York financiers, supposed to be "in the know" on everything in the Street, are to be called to see if they can advance any information.

Senator Walsh, leading investigator, announced Otto H. Kuhn, of Kuhn, Loeb and Company, and Benjamin F. Yoakum, former railroad president would be subpoenaed.

Calling of McLean again created a new sensation. It was his testimony regarding a $100,000 "loan" to Albert B. Fall which really opened up the present startling scope of the inquiry This testimony was given at Palm Beach some weeks ago when McLean told Senator Walsh that Fall borrowed $100,000 in checks to buy a ranch but three days later returned the checks uncashed and said he had arranged to get the money elsewhere.

Fall previously had said he got the purchase price of the ranch from McLean. McLean's story started a whole train of disclosures, including F. L. Doheny's story of a $100,000 loan to Fall and J. W. Zevely's story of a $25,000 Sinclair loan and gave the committee many new leads bearing on the leasing of the naval reserves.

700 ELKS PAY HONOR TO EXALTED RULER

Elks, to the number of over 700, among the concourse being members of the local lodge, listened to an inspiring address by Grand Exalted Ruler James A. McFarland at a banquet tendered in honor of the gentleman last night in the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh, by the Elks Association of the Southwestern District of Pennsylvania comprising 30 lodges.

The visiting Elks, inclusive of the Grand Exalted Ruler and his official family, notables of the order from various sections of the country, were welcomed to Pittsburgh by Daniel Winters, exalter ruler of Pittsburgh Lodge No. 11. Past Grand Exalted Ruler J Edgar Masters was toastmaster. Other speakers were James L. Quinn, president of the Southwestern District Association; Lawrence H Rupp, past member of the judiciary committee; John G. Price, past member of the Grand Forum; Harry L. Koch, president of the Pennsylvania State Association, and George J Kambach of Pittsburgh Lodge No 11.

On behalf of the district association, John E. Sweeney, chairman of the banquet committee, gave Mr. McFarland a humidor in recognition of his long service in behalf of the order.

NO CHANGE IS MADE IN THE COUNTY TAX

The county commissioners yesterday fixed the millage for county taxes for the ensuing year at 7½ mills, the same rate as has prevailed during the past four years. A lower rate than seven and one-half mills, in the opinion of the commissioners would hardly meet the requirements of the county and allow of any appreciable mileage of road building.

The reduftion granted for prompt payment of taxes and which is taken advantage of by thousands of citizens, amounts to approximately $50,000 per annum and depletes the actual cash received by that much. The collection of delinquent taxes never reaches the sum that it is estimated will be received and these matters were given attention by the commissioners in fixing the millage for the present year.

Sections of county for road work to be done in many communities indicate a desire on the part of the taxpayers to have as many miles of road constructed as may bt possible without burdening too heavily the people who will have to meet the expenditures. Having carefully considered all these things the commissioners concluded to maintain the millage rate that has prevailed for the past four years.

RELIEF SYSTEM TO AID FIRE FIGHTING

A joint meeting of the Charleroi-Monessen Fire departments was held last night at the office of Dennis McCahill of Monessen. Representatives from both towns were present and decided on the adoption of the "Relief System," which will be of benefit to both Charleroi and Monessen when fighting fires Considerable jealousy has been felt between the towns and it was decided at the meeting last night to throw all old grievances to the winds and start over again in the new.

Under the Relief System, in case of fire in either town, necessitating the two trucks from that town to be called into action, the other town will send one of its trucks to the station house ,where it will be kept to answer any call in case of another fire, or to be on hand should they be called to help fight the blaze.

This will enable both towns to have three trucks at their disposal at all times, and gives the citizens added fire protection.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN S. R. CRAWFORD PASSES TODAY

Samuel R. Crawford, aged 81 years, a wellknown and highly respected pioneer of the borough, and a Civil war veteran, died this morning at 1:45 o'clock at his home, 408 Fallowfield avenue. Mr. Crawford's passing was due to a complication of diseases and infirmities incident to his advanced age.

Decedent was born and reared in Beallsville, the son of Mordecai and Kathryn Crawford, and for the greater part of his life, followed the vocation of a tiller of the soil. Since coming to Charleroi in 1891, Mr. Crawford has retired from labor.

On January 18, 1866, he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Jane Chamberlain, whose death occurred on June 2, 1907. April 12, he was again joined in the holy bonds of matrimony. Miss Laura Yohe being the lady of his choice, who survives him.

Samuel R. Crawford enlisted with Company D, Twenty-second Regiment of Pennsylvania Cavalry Volunteers, known during the war as the famous Ringgold Cavalry. The date of his matriculation was in the year 1861, and he saw service until the close of the great conflict. He was a member of George D. Bayard Post 178, G. A. R, Belle Vernon, and Charleroi Post, No. 22, of the American Legion. There are six surviving members of the Belle Vernon Post.

Mr. Crawford is survived by his widow; four children—Mrs. Sam B. Wilson. Brownsville; Mrs. N. C. Brown of Fallowfield township; William H. Crawford. Midland, and Hawkins Crawford, 219 Fallowfield avenue; one brother, E. M. G. Crawford, Washing-

Lock No. 4 Man Has Expensive Experience In Automobile Accident

Percy Tressler, of Lock No. 4 and Antonio Michelli, of Frye Station, who figured in an automobile accident at the corner of Park avenue and Main street, Monongahela, when one of the cars crashed into a boulevard light and did considerable damage to the standard and base, were called before Mayor Billick yesterday and assessed $37.50 each for damaging the light. The assessment was agreed upon by both drivers and the matter dismissed on payment. Both drivers were apparently at fault To avoid a collision one turned his machine to the curb and struck the standard putting the light out of commission.

John Dalula, of the First Ward, Monongahela, was haled before Mayor Billick yesterday, charged with wilfully discharging firearms. The boy recently obtained an old 12 - gauge shotgun with which he was playing havoc in the First ward section. Residents of that district made complaint to the police department of the lad's actions. He had been running about in the Williams Hill district shooting dogs, cats, birds and practically any target, which he cared to shoot at, until the lives of the residents were endangered. Th boy following a hearing was fined $10 and costs and paroled with a severe reprimanding from the mayor. The gun was confiscated.

WARD BEATEN BY DEMARCO

Cuddy Demarco easily defeated Chuck Ward of Baltimore in the windup at the Gayety theatre at Baltimore last night. Cuddy was not obliged to display the sum total of his wares, and several times, when he had Ward in distress, showed compassion. The local boy won every round as he pleased. DeMarco weighed 134 pounds, and Ward 135.

DeMarco may box Andy Chaney at Baltimore in a few weeks, providing the latter beats Freddie Jacks in their bout at the Fourth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, next week Monday evening.

Board Of Trade Banquet Great; Davis Talks

The fourteenth annual banquet of the Monessen Board of Trade was held in the High School Building Gymnasium of Monessen last night with 550 in attendance.

As is the custom of the board speakers of national reputation, were secured The first speaker of the evening was Charles Calvert Ellis, Ph. D., president of Juniata College, of Huntingdon, Pa., who spoke on the subject of "Lincoln Quality." His address was highly pleasing, showing the characteristics of Lincoln always seeing the right and standing by his convictions regardless of whether it meant defeat or victory for him. The Hon. James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, was the other speaker of the evening. his subject being "The Immigration Problem." Mr. Davis defined his position regarding the problems confronting the United States today in the matter of immigration. During his address Mr. Davis took occasion to express his opinion of Mr. Vanderlip, regarding his statement in reference to the sale of Ex-President Harding's newspaper, the Marion Star. Mr. Davis branded Mr. Vanderlip as a grave robber. stating that Vanderlip had stooped so low as to go to the grave and rob it of its greatest posession, the character of the late president.

The toastmaster of the evening was Walter H. Reese, president of the Westmoreland Lumber Company.

The banquet was served by the Isabel Thoburn class of the M. E. Church of Monessen.

AN AUTOMOBILE CATCHES FIRE

A Reo speedster, belonging to the Potter-McCune Company, Monessen, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Donora-Monongahela road, near Black Diamond, when the gasoline feed line caught fire while the car was in operation.

The driver, Ben Shawley, of Monessen, was returning to Monessen with the truck when suddenly he noticed a fire in the engine and along the floorboards. Stopping the car he attempted to extinguish the blaze with a small chemical apparatus which he had, but this failed and a call was sent to the Monongahela Fire department.

A hurried run was made to the scene. The chemical apparatus was used in checking the blaze and the body and chassis of the car were saved. However, the motor was destroyed by the blaze and the damage will be about $500 which is covered by insurance.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald's Cabinet included three lords and a baronet to begin with and now the labor Ministry has caused the King to create three of its members barons. Critics are bound to remark, if they have not done so already, that the trouble with British democracy is that it wants to be aristocracy.

WATER POWER COSTLY IN PA., SAYS JOHNSON

Warns Against Error That States Can Greatly Utilize Streams to Insure Economy in Generation.

By W. H. JOHNSON
President National Electric Light Association and Member Pennsylvania Public Service Information Committee.

Philadelphia, Feb. 4. — Study of the problems of transmitting large blocks of power over long distances naturally brings to mind the relation of high-tension transmission lines to the development of the so-called giant power and hydro-electric projects. It is hardly necessary to dwell upon the ultimate advantages of super-power and the interlocking of great generating systems. It began when the development of water-powers and the interconnecting of such waterpowers, by high-tension lines, became increasingly possible. Naturally and obviously those sections of the country where water-powers were abundant were the first in which the possibilities of this development were foreseen.

I want to sound a note of warning that we must not rush to any false conclusion that giant or super-power means that the consumer is going to get his power at a cost considerably less than he is getting it today. We have not in Pennsylvania the water-powers of California, and in this state power by water is limited and expensive. In fact, on account of low waterheads, and according to the information I have in hand, the water-powers in Pennsylvania are really in the class which, when developed, can best be utilized upon a storage basis which will cover peak periods and emergencies. This means they will really be in relation to a large system simply alternating current storage batteries.

It costs money to erect and maintain big transmission lines. Some one must pay for them, and if it costs too much to run these high-tension transmission lines for the power company to obtain a reasonable return upon the investment, or if the consumer must pay too much for his share of the investment, super-power is not practicable under those conditions. The idea that super-power is going to give service at a tithe of the present cost of electricity is a false and dangerous deduction. As William Spencer Murray has so aptly expressed it in a recent talk in this city: "If power within the power station did not cost one cent a kilowatt hour, its cost to the consumer, because of the expensive distribution system, still would be at least eighty percent of its present price."

Reputable government officials and engineers who have made, at various times, comprehensive studies of this desirable development of super-power, approached the problem primarily from the angle of conservatism of our fuel resources—that and flexibility are the major objectives. Naturally, any such development must result in a reduction of overall investment—overhead. It must also result in the lowering of costs, but it is time a note of warning be struck in order that the public generally may not be deceived and disappointed in final accomplishment.

HOW GAS USERS CAN SAVE ON THEIR BILLS

Pennsylvania Committee Explains Precautions to be Taken With Pipes and Burners.

Natural gas users can save on their bills if certain precautions are observed, the Pennsylvania Public Service Information Committee declares.

When supplied with the proper amount of oxygen and thoroughly mixed with it natural gas will burn at a temperature of 4200 degrees.

Some or all of the following causes may be responsible for the incomplete mixture of the natural gas and oxygen:

Pipes too small and too many turns.
Poor burners and burner equipment.
Pipes clogged by corrosion.
Burner opening clogged by dirt.
Burner capacity too small for work being done.
Draft not sufficient for work required.
Burners not properly installed.
Boiler or furnace in bad condition.
Burners not properly operated.

If all boilers and furnaces were constructed in the same manner and used for the same purpose, it would be an easy matter to select and apply gas-burning equipment in the proper manner, but as all boilers and furnaces are not constructed alike, each must be considered independently of any other. The only object of a gas burner is to produce combustion.

FITZGERALD NAMED GENERAL MANAGER OF PITTSBURGH RAILWAYS COMPANY AS COURT DECREE ENDS RECEIVERSHIP

Newly Appointed Official Who Has Made a Thorough Study of the System Has Many Plans for Betterment of the Service—Frank R. Phillips Appointed Mechanical and Electrical Engineer, and W. H. Boyce, Commercial Manager—New Officials All Men of Wide Experience in the Street Railway Field

With the official termination of the receivership of the Pittsburgh Railways Company at midnight, January 31, came the announcement of the appointment of Thomas Fitzgerald as General Manager.

Under Mr. Fitzgerald's supervision many plans will be inaugurated and developed which will go to make the Pittsburgh Railways Company service comparable with if not better than the service of any other city in the country. Mr. Fitzgerald is thoroughly familiar with the street railway system in Pittsburgh, having made a thorough survey of the district during the past three years as consulting electric railway engineer.

THOMAS FITZGERALD

At the same time the appointments were also announced of Frank R. Phillips as Mechanical and Electrical Engineer, and of W. W. Boyce as Commercial Manager. All officers and employes of the Railways Company are to continue in the service in their respective capacities.

Mr. Phillips will be placed in charge of the mechanical and electrical developments which will follow the expansion of the Railways Company's facilities. One of his first duties will be to provide greater facilities for the 300 new cars which will be provided at an expenditure of $3,000,000. Mr. Phillips will also be given an opportunity to bring into play the expert engineering knowledge which has gained for him a nation-wide reputation.

In his capacity as Commercial Manager which corresponds to the Sales Manager of industrial establishments, Mr. Boyce will devote his time to the merchandising of transportation, fare systems, quality and quantity of service, public relations and such other duties as may be assigned by the general manager.

Mr. Fitzgerald comes to the Pittsburgh Railways Company with a wide experience in the public utility fields, having at various times been in service with the Third Avenue Railway Company of New York, Fairmont and Clarksburg Electric Railroad Company, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News Company, Roanoke Railway Company and Lexington, Kentucky Railway Company. From 1905 to 1917, Mr. Fitzgerald was connected with the Ohio Traction Company, the Cincinnati Traction Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, rising from Purchasing Agent to Assistant to Vice President to General Manager, from which position he resigned in 1917 to enter the army.

Following his discharge from the army, Mr. Fitzgerald opened offices in Pittsburgh as Consulting Electric Railway Engineer.

During the past few years he has made a comprehensive study of the Pittsburgh Railway System and took an active part in the plans for the reorganization.

Mr. Phillips is one of the most widely known engineers in the electric railway industry, and has been connected with the Pittsburgh Railways Company for many years. Last December he was elected president of the Pennsylvania Street Railway organization. Before coming to Pittsburgh, he was Master Mechanic of the Cleveland Railway Company in 1894 after leaving high school in Cleveland. He has served the Pittsburgh Railways Company in many capacities becoming Superintendent of Equipment in 1910 and retaining this position until his appointment by the Receivers as General Manager. In his new position, Mr. Phillips will have an important part in the development of the plans of the owners to make the reorganized company one of the best in the country, and will have a much wider scope for his engineering abilities.

Mr. Boyce began his street railway experience in February, 1902, as a train man on the Railways of the Electric Light and Street Railway Company at Terre Haute, Indiana. He later became shopman and interurban car dispatcher and in March 1903, was transferred to the Dallas Electric Light and Power Company of Dallas, Texas, where he became meter man and Superintendent of the Meter Department and eventually Assistant Superintendent of the Company.

In September, 1905, he became Superintendent of the Sherman Gas and Electric Company of Sherman, Texas and came to Pittsburgh in February 1906, to become Division Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent of Transportation of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. On August 1, 1909 he was made Superintendent of the Beaver Valley Traction Company and Pittsburgh and Beaver Street Railways Company, being elected General Manager of those companies April 15 1920.

THRONGS IN NATIONAL PARKS

Nearly 1,500,000 Persons Visited These Playgrounds During the Season of 1923.

Nearly 1,500,000 persons visited the national parks and monuments, the grand national playgrounds set aside by congress for the benefit and enjoyment of the people, in the 1923 season, according to a statement made by the Interior department. Much rivalry has existed between the various parks as to which would prove the most popular, and the honor goes to Rocky Mountain National park in Colorado, which had a visiting list of 218,000. Yellowstone National park, Wyoming, takes second place with 128,352 visitors, but Yellowstone's record is perhaps the most noteworthy, as the great park does not lie as close to great centers of population and the season lasts for only three months. Yellowstone's nearest rival was Yosemite National park, in California, which had 130,046 visitors. Mt. Rainier National park, Washington, had the greatest increase, jumping from 70,876 visitors in 1922 to 123,708 in 1923. Other parks having more than 100,000 visitors were Platt National park in Oklahoma, with 117,710; Hot Springs National park, Arkansas, with 112,000; and Grand Canyon National park, Arizona, with 102,166. The smallest attendance was at Mt. McKinley National park, Alaska, thirty-four hardy visitors having made trips into the park over the difficult trails with saddle and pack outfits. The national monuments drawing the heaviest attendance were Muir Woods, California, which attracted 91,253, the Petrified Forest, Arizona, 45,475, and the Scotts Bluff National Monument, Nebraska, 20,000.

HE RELIES ON HIS MEMORY

Blind Student in California High School Recites After Hearing Lessons Read.

Twelve years in school and has never seen a textbook. That is the record of Leroy Calvin Hendricks, a student in the University of Southern California high school, who has been blind since birth.

Calvin was graduated from grammar school in 1920. There were two other blind students in his class and the trio shared the distinction of being the first blind students to be graduated from a public school west of Chicago. They used the Braille system while studying their textbooks, but recited with the other students who could see.

Since his entrance to high school three years ago Calvin has not used the Braille system, except for taking class notes. His mother reads all of his lessons to him and he relies upon his memory for his class recitations.

He now is taking a general course, consisting of public speaking, English and political science, but intends to specialize in harmony work when he gets in the university. It is his ambition to become a great pianist, and those who have heard him play claim that he is already well on his way.—Los Angeles Times.

Insured Against Fun Films.

A novel insurance policy has just been issued by Lloyd's underwriters, says London Tit-Bits. It insures cinema-goers against death from excessive laughter while in the theater.

Recently several persons have been so affected by the hilarious nature of highly amusing films as to need medical attendance, and in more than one case death has resulted.

The policy which is in the sum of £500, covers a period of six months and has been taken out by the Associated First National Pictures, Ltd., to cover similar occurrences in the case of their new films.

While in no case has the proprietor of a picture theater been held liable for any untoward result of mirth upon the audience, the present policy is said to have been taken out to reassure the public and as a step forward in making the theater safe for hilarity!

China's Wheelbarrows.

China is said to be just a preliminary yawn and stretch. A recently returned traveler says: Almost all the freight in Tsinanfu, a walled city of 300,000 inhabitants at the land end of the Shantung railway, in China, is moved in wheelbarrows. Some of the loads are thus conveyed distances of 15 to 20 miles a day. Wheelbarrows also handle passenger traffic. "My lady" frequently returns from her shopping tours with her bundles on one side and herself on the other. Half a dozen people may ride in front of a puffing and perspiring coolie. The wheel is in the center of the barrow, which aids in balancing the load. If it is unusually heavy, another man or boy helps to pull by means of a rope or strap thrown across his shoulders. In a very few instances a mule is the assistant, but it requires a man to lead the mule.

Busy Pocket Gopher.

That busy little animal, the pocket gopher, the Geomys bursarius to scientists, is very numerous in the Yosemite National park and they pile up many mounds of dirt as they push out the development of their underground runways.

Professor Grinnell says he estimates the million gophers in the park carry to the surface each year enough loose dirt to fill 160 freight cars, and, so long as the work is done in the open prairie and not in the farms, the little animals are performing an important service in the economy of nature in turning over and mixing up the soil.—Ohio State Journal.

Apparently nothing is being paid on reparations, but the French are said to be pocketing much German money by huge sales of automobiles and expensive wines across the Rhine.

HAZARDOUS DRAINAGE

In many cases nature knows what she is about much better than the men who attempt to improve on her works. Governor Preuss of Minnesota attributes the starvation facing 11,000 Chippewa Indians in his State largely to the draining of Rice Lake, which has put an end to the game and wild rice as well as the fish. And probably the land reclaimed will not pay even the drainage cost for many years to come, for in regard to the drainage of two other Minnesota Lakes we read in the Bulletin of the American Game Protective Association:

"After drainage the bottom of Mud Lake proved to be peat and consequently of no value. Thief Lake had a clay bottom, part of which has been successfully cultivated, but the ground is so nearly level that it will not carry off the rainfall quickly enough to keep water from collecting in the former bed of the lake. Thousands of dollars have been lost in attempts to farm this lake bottom. In the three years since the drainage the crops raised have been insufficient to pay for the seed planted."

The results of these experiments should interest those who call for the drainage of the Okefinokee Swamp and other swamp and marsh lands which furnish feeding ground for water fowl and game and are the home of useful varieties of vegetation not found elsewhere. The reclamation of many such areas may become necessary as the population increases and more land is actually needed, but meanwhile they serve a useful purpose in nature's economy and needless interference is hazardous as well as costly.

ANIMAL ACTORS

In this country we have had animals in moving pictures innumerable times, but never a photoplay in which the only actors were animals. Such an experiment has been tried in France and, according to the accounts with a surprising degree of success. In the first attempt the star was a highly intelligent and remarkably well trained chimpanzee, the company consisting of four or five other trained animals and a dog or two. In his latest film, Alfred Machin, the celebrated animal trainer, tells a sort of a Tarzan story of the kidnapping of a child by an ape to replace a baby ape which had died. Machin's eighteen month's old daughter plays the part of the baby girl. The ape carries the child through thrilling dangers involving cliffs and chasms, builds it a nest of branches, finds it food, protects it from other beasts, and flees with it throught the tree tops when rescuers try to interfere.

If the French trainer will let his little daughter go through all this, it is obvious that his faith in his chimpanzees is complete, and certainly their training appears to be marvelous. They not only know how to act out a story but how to behave at other times. When, as a special reward, they are admitted to their master's dining table, according to L'Illustration of Paris, "they eat with knives, forks and spoons, display faultless table manners, and ask to be served with entire politeness." Could the most intelligent children do more? There must be an atmosphere almost of the uncanny about the film acting of these marvelous creatures.

A MINT OF CONTENTMENT

[illegible] name Anne Martin. There's the militant suffragist who ran for the United States senate three years ago. And there's another with even the same middle initial, H., only, being somewhat the political Anne Martin's senior, this other one prefers to be called Annie. With the name the likeness ends. Anne Martin revels in politics. Annie Martin does not like politics and refuses to take an active part in it.

She knows what she's talking about, too, in the realm of practical politics. She once went into newspaper work. The Carson News gave her a job for four years. The job included "being editor, proprietor, society and city editor, proofreader, compositor (of hand-set type), ad writer, bill collector, bookkeeper, general manager and dramatic critic." Then "the Silver party came into power, and all revenue from politics would be awarded to the opposition paper" so the editor-owner-bookkeeper-reporter of the Carson News sold out.

[illegible] lives in the house into which her family moved in 1866, had gone through the public schools of Carson City once and then started over again as teacher in the first kindergarten. It was 13 years later, after experimenting with various grades and deciding that she preferred to teach third-graders, that Miss Martin made her newspaper venture.

Next she tried a dry goods store, but "finicky women who spend three hours selecting the right shade of a spool of thread" seemed too much of an irritation to be bothered with. So she tried a stationery store, went back into the reporting game, and substituted as teacher at the State Orphans' home during the illness of the principal teacher. She tried teaching music but did not enjoy it. Meanwhile she has played the organ in the Presbyterian church for 40 years and had given much time to entertaining the inmates of the state prison.

Along in 1908 Miss Martin decided to take the civil service examination for clerk of the United States mint in her home city. From that has come the work she likes best. She is now assayer in charge and the only woman, probably, in such work in the world.

and a laugh from beginning to end.

Have you heard of the goof who was told to order a course dinner and asked for bran muffins?

SWEET SIXTEEN.

Sweet sixteen and never kissed,
Was quite the rule in mother's day;
But such girls now do not exist,
Cute flappers simply won't delay.
Most girls of sixteen have their beaux,
Who come and get them in their cars,
And take them to the movie shows,
To later park beneath the stars.
Sweet sixteen and never kissed,
No modern lass would boast of that.
It savors much of dances missed;
It brands one homely, slow or fat.

SNAP TO!

"Liza, what fo' yo' buy dat odder box of shoe blackin?"

"Go on, nigga, dat ain't shoe blackin,' dat's mah massage cream."

Laugh and the world laughs with you; talk too much and it'll run and hide every time it sees you coming.

There are only two parties in Congress—those who don't know what to do about it, and those who pretend they do.

Presenfe of mind is the quality that will keep you from spilling your tray in the cafeteria line when you have a serious impulse to scratch your ankle.

Laugh and the world thinks you are a tax dodger.

When Magnus Johnson came with his cow to Washington and pulled off his milking and wood-chopping contests—in which he went down to defeat—he obviously posed not only as a "dirt farmer" but as a democrat of democrats. But when he rushed into press gallery at Washington to make physical war on a correspondent who had displeased him he raised a question as to the real quality of his boasted democracy, adding to the suspicion that under his skin a radical is, after all, not a democrat but an autocrat.

It looks as if the traditional dinner-pail of politics is to have a revival. Oregon Democrats are reported as having ordered 10,000 small aluminum teapots as badges for the coming campaign.

The Personal Side

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Hosse of Meadow avenue are the parents of a son born Wednesday, February 13.

Thomas Alfieri of McKean avenue underwent an operation in the Allegheny General hospital yesterday, from which he is convalescing in a satisfactory condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferman Paxton of Conrad avenue, North Charleroi, are the parents of a son born this morning. Mrs. Paxton will be remembered as Miss Pearl Weaver.

Mrs. Emanuel Meli and Mrs. Thomas Alfieri, both of McKean avenue, left this morning for Pittsburgh, to spend the day with Thomas Alfieri, who is a patient in the Allegheny General hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. V. P. Vieslet of Crest avenue and Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Blythe of Meadow avenue were in Pittsburgh last evening in attendance at the Valentine Dinner Dance and party held at the Pittsburgh Athletic club.

Mrs. Ernest W. Fellows and daughter Jane of Canton, Ohio, are visiting at the home of Mrs. S. W. Fellows of Fallowfield avenue today. Mrs. Fellows was called to this vicinity on account of the death of her sister, Mrs. Beatrice M. Watson of Donora.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Emler of 105 Prospect avenue are the parents of a six pound son born Tuesday, February 12 Mrs. Emler was formerly Miss Freda Whitehead, daughter of Mrs. J. D. Whitehead of Prospect avenue.

In Society's Realm

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Yadrick entertained last evening at their home in 200 Shady avenue in honor of their daughter, Mary, who was celebrating her sixteenth birthday anniversary. There were 35 guests present and a happy time was spent in games and dancing. Miss Mary received many beautiful gifts. At a late hour a luncheon was served by Mrs. Simeon and Mrs. George Humphries.

Miss Anna Mae Shepard, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shepard of McKean avenue, was accorded a Valentine party at her home last evening and a number of her friends gathered there to spend a jolly time. Games, dancing and music were the main diversions followed by the serving of a dainty luncheon. The interior of the house was befittingly decorated to suit the occasion.

Mrs. Andrew Murray entertained the members of the Altar Guild of St. Mary's Episcopal church at her home in Meadow avenue last evening with a good attendance. Miss Sarah Matthews, president, conducted the devotional exercises and presided over the business meeting. The usual business routine was carried out and followed by a social hour, during which time the hostess served a dainty luncheon in the dining room. The next meeting will be held in the Church school room Thursday, February 28.

Miss Anna R. Kirk was hostess at a regular meeting of the Delta Theta club last evening held at her home in Fifth street. An enjoyable evening was spent in card playing, needle work and social converse, at the conclusion of which the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Jean E. Kirk, served an excellent luncheon, appointments being carried out in accordance with the day. Adjournment was made at a late hour to meet again at the home of Miss L. Audrey Michener, 109 Lookout avenue, Friday, February 29.

With sixteen present, a full attendance, the members of the Fortnightly 500 club met at the home of Mrs. MacKay Jimeson of Lincoln avenue and Fifth street last evening and spent an enjoyable evening. The time was pleasantly spent in cards, Mrs. William Vetter receiving the favor. Luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Edith Riley Clark and Mrs. Jimeson at the conclusion of the evening. The next meeting will be held in the Community room of the Elks club, Thursday, February 29, with Misses Ruth Clerihue and Henrietta Woodward as the hostesses.

The regular meeting of the Thursday Evening Sewing club was held last night at the home of Mrs. James Stevenson, Fallowfield avenue, with eight members present. After a delightful evening spent in needle work and social converse, luncheon, with Valentine suggestions prevailing, was served by Mrs. Stevenson assisted by her daughter Annette. During a short business discussion, the ladies decided to attend a performance at a Pittsburgh theatre next week. Those present were as follows: Mrs. Thomas McNabb, Mrs. Chris Anfindson, Mrs. L. P. Bosworth, Mrs. D. M. Provins, Mrs. Samuel Chaney, Mrs. J. F. Wall and Mrs. Smith.

The members of the Sewing Circle of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Misses Jennie and Elizabeth Elliot of Lookout avenue last evening with 27 members and one guest present. Mrs. Reeves of Fayttte City was the visiting guest present. The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. John Metz, following which the time was pleasantly spent in sewing and social converse. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Eugene Parks, Mrs. William Parks, Mrs. Ralph Spidell, Mrs. C. C. Lively and Misses Elliott. Valentines were given as favors. The next meeting will be a covered dish social to be held Tuesday, March 11, in the Sunday school room of the church.

At the home of Mrs. Clyde Brouse, Fallowfield avenue, the members of the Jane Allen club of Christ Lutheran church held their regular bimonthly meeting. Following a short business session, a delightful program of games was enjoyed. At a later hour the guests were ushered into the dining room, cleverly decorated in observance of Valentine day, where they were served a dainty luncheon. The appointments were also suggestive of the day and heart shaped candy was given as favors. Mrs. Walter T. Bromwich, the visiting guest, assisting in serving the luncheon. A large Valentine box was opened which contained both amusing and pretty missiles for all present. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Eva Coulter, 323 Lincoln avenue, Thursday, February 28.

ADMIT NO FACTS TO BACK RUMOR

brought to the surface and the scandal stopped."

"Did you say that in your speech?" Walsh asked.

"I did."

"Then you cannot give the committee any information?"

"I have no legal information. I have heard some reports about the price of the transaction, which was bought, as I understand it, under only part interest. I do not know the exact day."

"The current story was $505,000. I have heard that the price per share was $600. I do not know how many shares are involved. I have heard that a partial payment of $10,000 was to be made by the contributing editor, but was to go to Mrs. Harding in the event of Mr. Harding's death. I have no information as to the value of the paper. I understand that newspapers generally average 12 percent for country papers and 10 percent for a city paper."

"D you know anything about the value of that paper?"

"I know nothing, but I have heard the sum of $70,000."

"And you have no facts upon which to base such statements as you have made?"

"I have suspicious facts to base the statement that I made, that is that these rumors came to me. That is all I care, that it should be traced. I made no inference at all as to where the money might come from. That I said that I heard a rumor that the paper had been bought for more than it was worth."

"What do you think was involved?"

"There was clearly involved in the rumor that they had paid more for the paper than it was worth."

Senator Burson, New Mexico, Republican, asked about Vanderlip's relations with Mr. Harding.

"I knew him, not intimately, but well," Vanderlip said.

"Have you any evidence that there was any fraud in the newspaper transaction?" Burson asked.

"I do not know anything about the value of the paper and no facts to pass judgment."

"But you made the excuse that you broadcasted the scandalous rumor to kill a rumor about a threat."

"I repeat the statement that I broadcasted. I broadcasted the fact that a rumor was being broadcasted," Vanderlip replied sharply, his temper rising.

Senator Dill asked him, "Have you any evidence that will help us get the facts?"

"No, I have no knowledge of my own. I did say in the famous or infamous speech that there were other rumors being broadcasted and I said that the rumors were so widespread that they were undermining the minds of the people and should be investigated. I tell you, people are very suspicious of these sources of information and after what I heard here yesterday I am somewhat dubious myself."

Vanderlip, did you know anything about the $1,000,000 oil slush fund?" asked Walsh.

"Nothing, until I read it in the papers this morning."

SAHARA WAS ONCE FERTILE

Pictures of Forgotten Civilization Discovered on the Desert by Explorers.

The Sahara was not always a desert, parched by the blazing sun, says Hamburger Nachrichten. This great expanse is, to our minds, nothing but a land of scorching heat. We know that the entire region, although it is as big as Europe, has no more inhabitants than a medium-sized European town and that the endless plain of the Sahara holds nothing except sand and solitude.

Yet the immense desert of sand and bare rocks was in the dim past a fertile and well-developed country. Traces have been found of forgotten civilization which prove that the Sahara was not always a desert. The German explorers Nachtigal and Rholfs found pictures of fishes and plants carved in the rocks; pictures of plows and other agricultural implements, were also found.

Recently ruins of enormous cities have been found in the northern part of the desert. These ruins show an incredible splendor of architecture. The most important ruins were found near Damugadis which was founded during the time of the Roman emperors. Damugadis lay south of Tripoli in the northern Sahara. There a city of white marble of marvelous beauty was excavated. Its buildings had pillars in the Greek style, broad streets which would be the delight of any modern city architect, an intricate water system and all those attributes which characterized Roman civilization.

BADGE WORN BY TOREADOR

Spanish Bull Fighter Proud of His Pigtail or Coleta—Objects to Impostors Wearing It.

It is a saying in Spain that to be a great matador one should have Triana blood. Several families of the town have supplied three and sometimes four generations of bull fighters.

The conservative toreador wears a small pigtail or coleta. He allows his coleta to grow as soon as he has passed his novitiate and has been accepted by the authorities as a real torero.

The bull fighter is immensely proud of this traditional badge of his calling and has little mercy on those who wear it without the right to do so.—Detroit News.

Brief for the Passage of The Soldiers' Adjusted Compensation Bill

By John Thomas Taylor, Vice Chairman, National Legislative Committee, The American Legion

The bugaboo of poverty having been thoroughly exposed, and now threadbare from long misuse, opponents of the Soldiers' measure have been forced to adopt a new measure of attack. They now admit that we can afford to pay the Soldiers' Adjusted Compensation Bill, but claim that it cannot be paid and taxes reduced at the same time. The chief proponent of this propaganda, Mr. Mellon, the Secretary of the Treasury, wrote Chairman Green of the Ways and Means Committee, on November 10, last, proposing annual tax reductions of $323,000,000, based on an assumption of an equivalent surplus of receipts over expenditures for the next four or five years, but stated that "A soldiers' bonus would postpone tax reductions, not for one but for many years to come. It would mean an increase rather than a decrease in taxes." On page 9 of this brief the annual cost of the Adjusted Compensation Bill is shown. The total cost of the bill throughout its life is less than $88,000,000 a year, and the average cost for the first three years is $80,000,000 a year, or $242,000,000 for the first three-year period. This is only 25 per cent of Mr. Mellon's proposed reductions in taxes, yet by some magic known only to himself he states that these $80,000,000 a year payments will prevent tax reductions of $323,000,000 a year. To date Mr. Mellon has not seen fit to explain how he arrives at this conclusion.

An analysis of Mr. Mellon's tax reduction proposals demonstrates that they can be made effective just as he suggests and the Compensation Bill enacted at the same time. This is by eliminating his proposed reductions on all incomes between $50,000 and $1,000,000 a year. In other words, if the taxes on the multi-millionaire class (22,000 of them, according to Mr. Mellon's figures) remain just as they are, the taxes can be reduced on the other 14,000,000 income taxpayers, and the Adjusted Compensation Bill paid at the same time.

Mr. Mellon's tax reduction statements, which he has yet to explain in figures, are in line with his former statements on the subject of Adjusted Compensation, which he had to admit were inaccurate and misleading, although they were official statements to the Congress to guide it in legislation. Here are a few examples of how Mr. Mellon's official statements compare with the facts:

(1). In his letter to Joseph W. Fordney, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, dated January 24, 1922, Mr. Mellon said in part as follows:

"I am glad in accordance with your request, to present the latest figures as to the probable recipts and expenditures of the Government for the fiscal years 1922 and 1923. * * * It appears from these statements that for 1922 the budget estimates indicate a deficit of over $24,000,000."

This quotation is taken from the hearing before the Committee on Ways and Means of the House, on H. R. 1, the Soldiers' Adjusted Compensation Bill, the hearings taking place January 31, and February 1-7, 1922.

However, the fiscal year 1922 ending June 30, 1922, showed a surplus of $313,000,000 or $337,000,000 more than Mr. Mellon estimated, five months before.

(2). In President Harding's veto message of September 20, 1922, (which is published in the Congressional Record of that date, page 13995) he states:

"The latest budget figures for the current fiscal year show an estimated deficit of more than $650,000,000 and a further deficit for the year succeeding, even after counting upon all interest collections on foreign indebtedness which the Government is likely to receive."

Although this statement is carried in the President's veto message, and is therefore not over Mr. Mellon's signature, it is known that these figures for the veto message were prepared under Mr. Mellon's direction as the read of the financial department of the Government.

The fiscal year 1923, ended with a surplus of $309,000,000. The difference therefore, between the predicted deficit of $650,000,000 and the actual surplus of $309,000,000 equals $959,000,000.

(3). The quotations from the veto message in Par. 2 uses the following language: "and a further deficit for the year succeeding." In his letter of November 10, 1923, to Chairman Green, Mr. Mellon makes the following statement:

"It appears that for this year and for the next four or five years there should be a surplus of something over $300,000,000 a year."

This, therefore, should show that Mr. Mellon's prediction in the veto message for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, has already been boosted $959,000,000.

The banks can well afford to lend the relatively small sums which the veterans will borrow upon their adjusted service certificates. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has estimated that the maximum of this borrowing during the first three year period will amount to $600,000,000, although others estimate this sum at much less. Compare this to the assets of $40,000,000,000 owned by the banks of this country.

During the war and the prosperity period immediately following, the banks of this country earned profits, which they still retain, of $1,747,605,000. This vast sum is three times greater than the retained profits for a similar period preceding the war, and three times the maximum amount which the Chamber of Commerce estimates the veterans will borrow upon their certificates.

Stock dividends, representing accumulated profits, of more than $2,000,000,000 were disbursed immediately after our Bill was vetoed.

The Payment of Compensation Has Already Long Been Delayed.

It is five years since the Armistice was declared, and the veteran still waits for the adjustment of his compensation, although Big Business was paid off immediately.

Some opponents argue that the delay is so great that compensation will now fail to benefit the veteran. This is far from the truth. Many veterans are still in debt, due to their war service, and the payment of Adjusted Compensation at this time would be of material aid to them. The constructive features of the Bill are apparent.

But these arguments have nothing to do with the principle of Adjusted Compensation. The principle is well established, is fundamental, and the nation is obligated to follow it.

Tob be continued tomorrow.

The Philadelphia North American describes Attorney General Daugherty as "a political soldier of fortune," the "agent of special privilege and predatory wealth," and the Public Ledger of the same city calls him "the Harding administration's 'Old Man of the Sea'" who may "prove a millstone around the new administration's neck." With these two and other Republican newspapers printing such lively comment, a new Attorney General would seem to be promised.

New Temple of Finance to Mirror Dignity of Egyptian Prototypes

AN ARCHITECTURAL ACHIEVEMENT

The new Federal Reserve Bank building of St. Louis is on the way to completion. It is an architectural achievement. It combines a massive wall treatment suggestive of the age-old dignity of Egyptian prototypes with a grouping of the co-related parts to indicate their true inter-relation.

Most important in a federal reserve bank is the quick and economical passage of its currency and securities through the various channels. In this respect the architectural design is unique. The great main floor banking section is tied to its direct control, the officers' quarters, on the second floor, with a filing floor. This filing floor, unobtrusively between the two, is easily accessible to both. Above are the two floors for the clerical force. The whole is capped by an attic story having recreation and luncheon facilities for employes. Architects designing the building are Mauran, Russell & Crowell, St. Louis.

To attain massive design without sacrificing practicability and to produce a texture of warmth and charm Indiana limestone was used. Most other federal reserve banks are constructed of this material having remarkable weathering qualities. Unlike other stone it is available in huge dimensions free from blemish. Uniformity of the blocks in the great wall surfaces of bush-hammered finish and the sharpness of the clean-cut mouldings add greatly to the beauty of the new St. Louis structure.

Simplicity, texture and scale are the dominant notes in the exterior design of this monumental building.

Beauty Congress Meeting In France Sounds Death Knell of Bobbed Hair

PARIS — Bobbed hair, like hooped skirts, is passé. For months the style has been dying a painless death. Now it is officially laid to rest by the International Hairdressers' Congress, the recognized style group. In tolling its death knell, coiffure experts declare "all Europe has quit bobbing locks are wearing transformations." Reports from American beauty experts also show bobbing is on the wane and "in six months will be atrociously unpopular, if not in utter bad taste."

Accordingly, three new modes of hairdress that permit the wearing of false hair will prevail among women of taste in 1924. They are the Empress Josephine, with hair drawn back and a cord or band around the temples; Louis Philippe, with chignon curls clustered around neck and ears, and Empress Eugenie, with two bands across the forehead and curl falling over each ear. Transformations, deftly worn, will be covered with reliable invisible human hair nets now used for all evening and dress wear. Greater demand for hair nets, it is declared, was one of the first signals of the passing of bobs, over sixty million Gainsboroughs being sold in 1923.

"Bobs are gone, but after all, who cares?" sighed the chairman in adjourning the congress.

"Personne!" chorused the delegates. Which means Nobody.

First Lighthouse Was Constructed by Egypt

To Egypt belongs the credit of the erection of the first lighthouse on record, namely, the tower built on the island of Pharos at the mouth of Alexandria harbor, by that most enlightened ruler, Ptolemy II, about 300 years before the Christian era. This tower was 100 feet high, and stood as a monument to an ancient civilization until the Fourteenth century, when it was washed away by the sea. Its light consisted of an open fire of burning wood, and the same practice was followed in all subsequent lighthouses until the beginning of the Seventeenth century. Even as late as 1790 the South Foreland lighthouse was merely a large beacon fire of coal. The famous Eddystone lighthouse in 1759 was lit by ten pounds of tallow candles, a clock being provided to ring a bell every half hour to remind the keeper to snuff them. In 1763 oil lamps with reflectors were used for the lighting of the Mersey channel, and after the invention of the Argand burner twenty years later oil became the standard illuminant. Mineral oil was introduced in 1872, and the concentric wicks of the Argand burner in due course gave way to the incandescent mantle, which now furnishes the light for all the most important lighthouses of the world.

Explains Why Sidewalk Stays Dry During Rain

A dry sidewalk while the air is full of drizzling rain is not an uncommon sight. The reason is that the surface is warm from previous heating or from sunlight which penetrates the clouds, even while they are dense enough to give forth a drizzle. In the case of cement the heating may be also by conduction from below. In either case, or in the combination of the two causes, the surface is sufficiently warm to evaporate the moisture as fast as it falls and leave the sidewalk dry. Clouds, of course, do not shut off all sunlight. One can be badly sunburned on a cloudy day, though not when clouds are dense enough to produce a drizzle. The occurrence of a drizzle is often an indicator of clear skies above, which, during the night, have allowed a lower moist layer of air to cool below its dewpoint, and so to form the thin clouds from which the drizzle falls.

How to File Saws

Almost any one with a bit of mechanical ability can learn to file saws. All the equipment necessary is a set of three or four files of various sizes and degrees of fineness and a clamp to hold the blade in while the filing operation is in progress. One must learn to hold the file evenly and to draw it back and forth with even pressure the full length of the cutting surface. It does not injure the file or the work to pull it back in contact with the cut surface, even though many careful workmen seem to think that it does and prefer to lift it each time. The set of the teeth of the saw should be carefully noticed before the work begins.

Never use a file on tools more high-tempered than the file itself, for this will ruin it. One set of files should be kept for the hard metals, such as iron and steel, and another for such soft metals as the artisan is often called to cut, like brass.

Immense Waterspout

A Washington scientist has recorded the particulars concerning a great waterspout he observed south of Cape Comorin on a day when the weather was fine and the sea smooth. The waterspout formed between a russet-gray cloud and the sea nearly five miles from the ship. At first the distance between the base of the cloud and the surface of the sea was 4,600 feet and the width of the column tapered from 500 feet at its juncture with the cloud to 150 feet at the sea.

The vortex appeared to be a tube with tapering sides and a central column. The walls seemed to consist of water moving downward and the central column of water ascending. The phenomenon lasted for thirteen minutes. The walls broke and the central column appeared to ascend into the cloud.

Practical Chemistry

"Coal exposed to the elements loses 10 per cent of its weight and power," said the lecturer. "This is due to the action of the alkali constituents of—"

"But what if there's a dog sleeping near the coal?" interrupted a student.

"None of your levity, young man. This is a serious matter."

"That's what dad thought when 72 per cent of the coal he had bought disappeared during three nights of exposure. Then he asked my advice, as a student of chemistry, and I told him to buy a dog. He bought a dog with bay-window teeth and now he doesn't loose 1 per cent of our coal a month. That's practical chemistry."

Common Labor

The cripple thumped his crutch on the ground as he confronted his lawyer.

"Heavens, man!" he exclaimed. "You are taking four-fifths of my damages. I never heard of such extortion!"

The lawyer smiled.

"I furnished the skill, the eloquence and the necessary legal learning of your case," he replied coolly.

"Yes," said the client, "but I furnished the case itself."

"Bosh!" sneered the lawyer. "Anybody could fall down a coal hole!"

Massachusetts Had First Nail Machinery

There is no date in history fixing the first use of nails. Up to a century ago they were still exclusively hand made, and even as late as 1830 it was a general custom in this country for the nail maker with his forge and anvil to come with the carpenter to make the nails needed in the erection of a building. The first nail-making machinery originated in Massachusetts in 1810 to make cut nails from steel or iron plates. The use of cut nails is now greatly reduced by the introduction of machinery and wire nails, which came into the United States from Germany in 1875. It was discovered shortly after their introduction that they did not have great holding power. This defect was overcome in 1882 by Ira Copeland of Whitman, Mass., who conceived the idea of coating them with vegetable gum, the result being to give them even greater holding power than cut nails.

Exasperated Nerves Are Very Infectious

"It has been my experience in life, and I find the experience of others confirms me, that irritability begets irritability and scolding begets scolding.

"Exasperated nerves are very infectious. Beware of the tongue of that husband who has a shrewish wife. Beware of the company of those children who have a nervous invalid in authority over them!

"Satire, properly speaking, is the scorn of fools. The satirist, therefore, claims a personal exemption. He, by some miracle, has escaped from folly. It is an assumption which I, for one, am never prepared to grant him. Are you? Well, you will not be when you are older. And you may take this from me."—Lee Wilson Dodd in McNaught's Monthly.

Where Science Falls Down

At the club they were talking on germs and germ carriers. One member maintained that kisses carried germs. Another considered paper money the chief offender.

"Your opinions are merely vague guesses," declared a third. "What have the scientists found out on the subject."

Nobody knew. A college professor drifted in and they called on him.

"We were discussing germ carriers, professor. What do the scientists have to say about kisses and paper money?"

"Kisses and paper money, eh?" echoed the professor. "The average scientist has had little experience with either."

Her Favorite "Him"

Miss Teachem, wishing to arouse the interest of her Sunday school class, asked them each to write down the name of their favorite hymn.

All the scholars bent their heads over pencil and paper for a few minutes and then handed in their slips. All, that is to say, except Mary.

"Come, Mary," the teacher said, "write down the name of your favorite hymn and bring the paper to me."

Mary wrote and, with downcast eyes and flaming cheeks, handed the teacher a slip of paper bearing the words: "Willie Smith."

Peculiar Bark on Tree

The characteristic of the shagbark hickory from which it derives its name, is the peculiar manner in which the bark is attached to the trunk, says the American Tree Association of Washington. This is light gray and from one-half to three-quarters of an inch in thickness. It separates from the trunk in thick strips from a few inches in length to from two to three feet and from one to six inches in width. These strips retain their attachment to the tree at the middle and usually curl up at each end, giving a decidedly rough and shaggy appearance to the trunk.

Ha! Ha!

Wife—I feel the need of a good time this evening. Let's do something reckless.

Husband—Ha! With business as rotten as it is? Why, I'm losing money by the minute. I simply had to take a golf lesson this afternoon to forget it.

Wife—Yes, and by the way, the professional said that in six months he'd make you one of the star players of the course.

Husband—Did he say that? Get your things on! Where shall we go?—Town Topics.

Battling the Wolves

Dogs alone will never solve the wolf problem. Greater dependence has been placed on professional "wolfers" who make their living by trapping and poisoning wolves and other destructive animals. In April and May they track the wolves to their dens and dig out the puppies. If the hunter is a small man he will sometimes crawl into the den, and by the light of a flash lamp shoot the she-wolf and put the pups into a bag.—Nature Magazine.

JUST AS IT WAS WHEN GEORGE WASHINGTON'S GRANDPARENTS WERE WED...

New view of the "Main (and only) street" of Sulgrave Village, the little farming hamlet attached to Sulgrave Manor, ancestral home of the family of George Washington, whose great-grandparents are buried in the village Church. Probably there have been but a few trifling changes in the sleepy little community since the days when the great-grandfather of our first president was the Lord of the Manor.

ONE HUNDRED ATTEND RECEPTION HELD HERE

Mrs. Harry Lebowitz of Monessen, president of the Monngahela Valley Council of Jewish Women, was given a reception by more than 100 members and friends yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Elks club. Mrs. Nathan Greenburg was in charge of the program, which was well received and enjoyed by everyone present. The rooms of the club were appropriately decorated, and the affair was both an elaborate and delightful one. Mrs. Joe Prise officiated as mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. Harry Finkelpearl and Mrs. Dixman, both of Pittsburgh, prominent Council workers, were the main speakers, the former giving a splendid talk on "Council Activities;" while Mrs. Dixman dwelt on "Cooperation." They reviewed the charity and religious work of the council. Mrs. Caplan also of Pittsburgh, entertained by singing several solos, being accompanied on the piano by Miss Ruth Pearlman of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Jack Teitelbaum, vice president, gave a resume of the work done by Mrs. William Oppenheim of the Monongahela Valley Council, who in turn addressed the assembly. Mrs. Harry Lebowitz gave an appreciative address, making a strong appeal for the coperation of all members to carry on the work she had scheduled. Both Mrs. Oppenheim and Mrs. Lebowitz were presented with beautiful bouquets of flowers by Mrs. Nathan Greenberg, in appreciation of the esteem in which they are held. A splendid address was also given by Mrs. Frank Goldstein, president of the Brownsville branch. The luncheon served in the dining room was an excellent one and up to the Elks usual standard.

MOVEMENT TO CHANGE A TOWN INTO A BOROUGH

Bloomsburg, Feb. 15— (United Press).—A movement is now under way here to change Bloomsburg, the only incorporated "town" in the state into a borough. Petitions are being circulated and a deputation will go to Harrisburg next month to discuss the matter with state officials. It is said business reasons make the change desirable.

JACK HORNER WAS ROGUE

Mother Goose Character Really Existed in the Reign of Henry VIII.

Jack Horner of the Christmas pie really existed, though whether he deserved the title of "good boy" is exceedingly doubtful. He was, however, a fortunate rogue.

When Henry VIII suppressed the monasteries and drove the monks from their quarters the title deeds of the abbey of Mells were demanded by the commissioners. The abbot of Glastonbury determined that he would send them to London and, as the documents were very valuable, and the road infested with thieves, it was difficult to get them to the metropolis safely.

To accomplish this end he devised a very ingenious plan. He ordered a savory pie to be made, and inside he put the documents—the finest filling a pie ever had—and intrusted this dainty to a lad named Horner to carry up to London to deliver safely into the hands for whom it was intended.

But the journey was long and the day cold, and the boy was hungry, and the pie was tempting, and the chance of detection was small.

So the boy broke off a piece of the pie, and beheld a parchment within. He pulled it forth innocently enough, wondering how it could have found its way there, tied up in pastry, put it in his pocket and then continued his journey to town.

ton: one sister, Mrs. Josh Chamberlain, Grindstone, Pa.; nine grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services, military in character, will take place next Sunday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock at the late residence of the deceased. They will be in charge of Charleroi Post of the American Legion, and the Rev. John R. Burson, erstwhile pastor of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church, will have charge of the services, in which duties he will be assisted by the Rev. Dr. E. H. Greenlee, of the Methodist Episcopal church. Interment will be made in the Beallsville cemetery.

WOOL FOR BILLIARD TABLE

Twenty-Two of the Finest Fleeces Are Used in Making Single Cover That Will Stand Up.

Most striking of the revelations of the manufacture of billiard tables are the facts about the cloth for which the pick of the world's wool is used to produce a fabric that will stand up to its work. No fewer than 22 fleeces are rejected during the processes of cleaning and combing before the weaving begins.

To keep a cloth in the best condition two things are essential—careful brushing and ironing. The strokes of the brush must invariably be in the same direction—that is, with the nap—and the same rule holds good for the iron, which should never be too hot or else the cells of the wool will be deprived of the natural moisture which they need to keep in good condition.

The points of the best cues are usually made of French ash or maple, which have been found by experience to keep straighter than other woods. For the embellishment of the butt ebony is the favorite, but tulip wood—a wood from Brazil of a red color with yellowish streaks—and rosewood are both employed sometimes.—Detroit News.

Use for Old Bed Springs.

A worn-out bed spring, resting quietly on a city dump, might be considered as the last word in uselessness, but science, which is always on the lookout for a possible use for anything from Niagara falls to a cootie has not overlooked the possibilities of city dumps. It has been found that these unsalable antiques make the best sort of protection from flying debris in blasting explosions. The charge is covered first with a layer of bed springs and then with some loose heavy articles such as railroad ties. When the explosion occurs the gases escape readily through the cracks and crevices in the springs and slats, but the small fragments are retained and so cause no damage to adjacent persons and property. The springs are said to be practically indestructible by this treatment and may be used repeatedly.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Pearl Smith Johnson who died two years ago today, Feb. 15, 1922.

No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have lost can tell,
All the grief that is born in silence
For the one we loved so well.

Sadly missed by her mother, father, sister and brothers and friends.
